Social Circle.

To the "Social Circle."

NEW YORK, Oct. 21st, 1860.

Right Honorable Circle.—You may want to know who we are—being bashful, we blush; as we enter your midst, and we call upon "St. Ledger", to sustain us in our overwhelming predicament—hem—who we are? a being of flesh and blood—mourning over departed "Brain"—awaiting to be considered the "plaything" of the people. Not tame, but popular. Now friends we ask, will you extend the "right hand of fellowship", to a deserted "Bachelor"; who has collapsed in consequence of his outburst before a public tribunal? Don't all encore at once. But grant us a quiet entree, in some shady corner, with a sunny smile, beaming from a pair of bright blue eyes, as a reward of our just merit—which by the way, no one has ever been able to discover!!

Yes "St. Ledger", we most believe that many things are hidden from the eyes; thy presence by distance has been lost in obscurity, while we are left to mourn, alas! desolate. But as Tom Moore says: "We could be happy with either were toother dear charmer a-way!"

Where dwelleth "Mimie-lala"?
In the valley of the Shenandoah?

And we'll endorse the warble of the "Linnet" by our own sentiments, all homely tho' it be.

The luxuries of Friendship, what are they?
The dearest gifts of a few?

Al! no they are something greater,

They dwell in the good and the true.

A derived of thought and of feeling,

Irrespective of time and place.

Al! the dearest, the noblest, the best,

&lt;

The Great Floyd Gun.

The following description of this monster piece of ordnance at Fort Monroe (the most complete that has been written) is given by a correspondent of the Charleston Mercury, writing from Old Point, Sept. 27:

The monotonous routine of garrison life at this great military stronghold is just now most agreeably varied by a series of highly interesting experiments with the mammoth iron gun which has been named after the present Secretary of War. This tremendous piece of ordnance, by far the largest ever cast in this or any other country, is designed for use in our coast defences, as an offset to the late important improvements in the construction of vessels of war. It is intended to cripple, certainly and hopelessly, at a single shot, any hostile ship or steamer, no matter how large or strongly built, that may venture within a mile of its enormous muzzle. Many do not hesitate to predict that it is destined to work a speedy revolution in modern warfare. A brief sketch of so important and novel a feature in the improvements of military science, will be interesting to your readers.

The Floyd gun was cast but a short time since at the Fort Pitt Foundry, near Pittsburgh, Penn., under the supervision of Capt. Rodman, of the Ordnance Department. It weighs, independently of the carriage, 49,099 lb., and its cost was something over $10,000. The bore is sixteen inches in diameter, and fifteen feet in depth. In its model this gun resembles the "Columbian" or "Dahlgren" gun, the weight of metal predominating largely round the breech, which has to sustain the first shock of the explosion, and which is about four and a half feet in diameter. The gun is worked by six men, and the time consumed in loading and firing is just one minute and a half. It will throw either shot or shell, and these are spherical in form and of appalling magnitude—the solid shot weighing each 450 pounds. The 15-inch shell weighs about 384 pounds, and carries besides 15 pounds of powder. The charge of powder used in firing this monster cannon was at first only twenty pounds, but this has been gradually increased to ascertain the maximum of powder, and I am informed that in the last discharge no less than forty-five pounds were used.

The piece is not intended to be fired at a longer range than about two thousand yards, but at this distance its execution is terrific, completely shattering the most massive targets, whether constructed of stone, timber, earth or iron. Through the kind courtesy of Captain Old, 3d Artillery, I enjoyed the excellent opportunity to inspect the size and workings of this immense gun. It is mounted on an iron carriage, revolving upon a huge pivot, and stands upon the beach, only a few yards from the water's edge. The cast-iron gun carriages, now coming into general use, are found to be far superior, both in point of strength and convenience, to the old fashioned wooden model. Not the least singular feature of the big gun is the powder used in discharging it.—The grains are hard smooth lumps of irregular shape, varying in size from a half inch to an inch in diameter. I am indebted to Col. Dimmick, the veteran commandant at the Fort, for some fine specimens of this rather unusual and formidable looking kind of ammunition.

A Man Killed and a Woman terribly Mangled by a falling Tree.

A correspondent of the Lexington Dispatch, writing from Decaturville, Tenn., under date of the 14th inst., gives the following particulars of a terrible calamity: "As some negroes were passing the road leading from this place to Perryville this morning, near Rushing Creek, they were attracted by the cries of a female, and upon examination, found, near the road, a woman lying by the fire with her husband, both confined by a log across them. It appears that they were traveling, and had stopped to camp, and built their fire near a dead tree, which caught fire, (after they had fallen asleep,) and burning off near the ground, fell angling across them, breaking both the woman's legs, just below the knee, and killing the man almost instantly. When interrogating the woman we learned that the tree had fallen across them several hours before day, and that her husband lived long enough to tell her what to do after he was dead. She said she had till she could call no longer, for some one to come to her relief after her husband died, (not being able to extricate herself.) She also stated that her maiden name was Watts; that they had been married about three months, and were going across Tennessee River, where corn was cheaper. When we reached the place where the unfortunate persons were, the scene was most horrifying, and the cries of the poor woman when taken away from her husband were enough to melt the most obdurate heart."

Music.

There is something very wonderful in music. Words are wonderful enough but music is even more wonderful. It speaks not to our thoughts as words do; it speaks straight to our hearts and spirits—to the very core and root of our souls. Music soothes us, stirs us up; it puts noble feelings into us; it melts us to tears, we know not how; it is a language by itself just as perfect in its way as speech, as words just as blessed. Music, I say, without words, is wonderful and blessed—one of God's best gifts to man. But in singing you have both the wonders together—music and words. Singing speaks at once to the head and to the heart, to our understanding and to our feelings; and therefore, perhaps, the most beautiful way in which the reasonable soul of man can show itself (except, of course, doing right, which always is, and always will be, the most beautiful thing) is singing.

IREDELLE EXPRESS

EUGENE B. BRAKE & SON,
EDITORS AND PROPRIETORS.

STATESVILLE,

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1860.

Our Terms.

THE "IREDELLE EXPRESS" is published upon the following terms, which will be no deviation. Subscribers therefore will govern themselves accordingly:

1 copy one year, if paid in advance, $2.00;
2 copies one year, $3.00;
If paid within 6 months, $1.50;
If not paid till the end of the subscription year, $3.00.

If the Express should appear more dull to its readers than usual, this week, they will please ascribe it to the want of items furnished by our exchanges, and the lassitude which has come over our feelings in the momentous crisis now hanging over the country. Although our stake is small, our concern is large for the welfare of our native land. In a short time we hope to feel better—especially will we rejoice if John Bell is elected, President of the Republic.

Cause and Effect.

The battle has been fought—the die is cast—the decision has been made in favor of one of the candidates, perhaps, who will rule this nation the next four years; or be the President of one of its shattered fragments, merely, with the Union torn asunder, and bleeding at every pore; to be followed by discord, anarchy, and civil-war, in an effort to control the other half. If such should be the case, let the curse rest, where it of right belongs, and its authors—whose desire was to rule, or ruin!—receive the anathemas which they will deserve so well. But we will not anticipate the terrible evil in advance of its known existence. It is possible that the nation will yet survive—that the Union will remain awhile longer to bless and prosper, those at least, who love it and are desirous to live under its protecting aegis.

The Union has done injury to no man living under its Constitution; the Laws are all good and wholesome; but they have been badly administered—they have failed to be executed by those whose sworn duty was to enforce them, hence all the trouble and turmoil in the country. "When bad men bear rule, the people do mourn." Bad men have in this Government a score of years, with little intermission, and the fruits of their misrule are now being felt from Maine to Texas. The sin of the nation is, and has been, with its rulers—who have deceived the people, and corrupted the fountain of their liberties.

Prayers for the preservation of the Union.

Monday last, in accordance with a recommendation of the Synod of North Carolina which was recently convened at this place, was observed by the members of the different Churches and community generally, as a day of fasting and prayer for the preservation of the Union by the intercession of the Almighty Power. The places of business were all closed during the day, and at 11 o'clock, almost the entire population assembled in the Presbyterian Church (or as many as it would hold) and united in prayer and supplication to the Ruler of kingdoms upon earth, for His merciful intercession in behalf of our distressed country. The suppliant to a throne of grace met again at night for the same purpose.

Statesville Drug Store.

Our advertising columns will show that Messrs. CANNON & WHITE, have opened a Drug Store in this place; and they invite physicians and others to give them a call. Their stock, we learn, embraces the usual variety of Drugs, Chemicals, Dye-Stuffs, &c., &c., to be found in a first class establishment.

A Spectacle for Abolitionists.

Among the large throng who were present and took part in the divine service held in the grove of the Presbyterian Church last Sabbath week, were several hundred colored persons (slaves,) occupying a division to themselves, provided with seats as good as the whites', well clothed—they heard the same sermon, joined in the same prayers and hymns, and partook of the same sacrament with their masters at the Lord's Table,—and cheerfully contributed their mite to send the Gospel to perishing heathens. And so it is throughout the whole Southern land, the blacks are well provided with Christian privileges, having church accommodations, and hear the Gospel preached on every Sabbath equally with their masters and mistresses.—

Lincoln Elected.

We are indebted to the Charlotte Bulletin for the following election news, received by telegraph:

New York State has gone for Lincoln.—

The thing is up.

Lincoln carries Connecticut by several thousand.

Delaware has gone for Breckinridge.

Lincoln has carried Pennsylvania.

Illinois closely contested between Douglas and Lincoln.

The intelligence leaves no room to doubt that Lincoln is elected.

Terrible Steamboat Disaster.

New Orleans, Nov. 2.

The steamer Hill, running between this city and Memphis, exploded her boiler Wednesday night. A large number of passengers were on board. Thirty persons were killed, and from forty to fifty badly scalded.

Politics in Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 1.

The Republican "Wide Awake" was making a desperate attempt to get up a demonstration in this city to-day. They are now marching through the streets in procession, and numbered about three hundred men. They were surrounded by a strong police force, who with great difficulty restrain the exasperated populace. When the "Wide-Awake" Republicans were entering Front Street Theatre, the procession was set upon by a crowd of half grown boys and completely scattered. The frames, torches and transparencies were smashed up and carried off in triumph by the boys. After they got into the Theatre, they were greeted with a storm of hisses. The howling and groaning was really terrific.—The speakers arose in vain to speak. The noise and confusion was so great that not a word they said could be heard. The meeting was finally broken up and dispersed by the exasperated outsiders. The speakers were pelted with rotten eggs, hissed at and yelled out of countenance. It required 200 policemen to protect the negroes from violent personal injury. As it was, quite a number were seriously hurt by the clubs and bats thrown at them. The negro worshippers will not soon attempt to hold another meeting. They have paid the penalty of their audacity and been thoroughly censured—foot, foot and dragoon. Maryland is certain for Bell.

The Bell and Everett Minute Men are now marching in procession with torches, and number from 7,000 to 10,000. It is the grandest scene ever witnessed in Baltimore. There are displays of fire-works, illuminations and enthusiasm in all quarters. Almost the entire population has turned out to see the procession. There is the most intense excitement spreading in the square.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 2.

The Breckinridge and Lane Democracy had an immense procession to-night. The principal feature of the display was a body of five hundred horsemen and about four thousand uniformed men parading as a National Democratic guard. The procession had torches, bangers, music, and transparencies. The city was partially illuminated, and much enthusiasm was manifested.

The Douglas men were determined not to be left in the back-ground. They also had a large torchlight procession, and a great mass meeting in Monument Square. It is estimated that at least 4,000 persons were present.

The general political and financial excitement continued great. The state advised that at last the Colonels and all his family were entirely recovered, and had gone back to Marseilles.

The idea of installing the Pope in Jerusalem has been broached by the French press. They say that it is no further from Jerusalem to Jaffa than it is from home to its sea port, Civita Vecchia; a railroad would place Jerusalem with a few hours of the Mediterranean, and it would be very near; as convenient for the Catholic world as Rome is now. It would add, very much to the advance of Christianity in the East. The French army in Syria can easily take possession of Palestine if the Sultan dare refuse a demand for it; in fact, they say it would be the easiest way to settle the Roman question.

Another Fatal Affray.

Quite an unfortunate and melancholy affray occurred on Sunday evening last, some ten miles East of this village, at a liquor shop kept by P. B. McDaniel, between Mr. Samuel Posey, Jr., and Henry Williams, which resulted in the immediate death of Posey. Williams also received a flesh wound, but it is not thought to be serious.—

We understand the parties were in liquor at the time the difficulty occurred.

It is a disputed point who fired first. Posey was shot five times, one ball taking effect about two inches above the left nipple. Williams received one ball in the left side.

This is another one of the many sad and deplorable occurrences that are brought about directly through the agency of the licensed rum shops that are scattered here and there over this otherwise great and glorious land—shops that are kept without any regard to law or order, where mid-night revelry and all manner of wickedness is carried on, and where, even in the sunlight of Heaven, our blessed Sabbath day is desecrated by men drunk and maddened with the poisonous drinks of the present age. Such dens, although few and far between in this District, should be exterminated forthwith and forever; and we here remark that we conceive it to be the duty of all good citizens to arise in their majesty and expunge from their community these loathsome places of resort, or see that the laws are rigidly and strictly enforced against those who may fearlessly and wantonly violate their father to decide the case.

"Well, my boys," said the old gentleman, "I will be judge. There is the prisoner," pointing to the woodchuck; "and you shall be the counsel, and plead the case for and against his life and liberty."

Ezekiel opened the case with a strong argument, urging the mischievous nature of the criminal, the great harm he had already done, said that much time and labor had been spent in his capture, and now if he was suffered to live and go at large, he would renew his depredations, and be cunning enough not to suffer himself to be caught again, and that he ought now to be put to death; that his skin was of some value, and that, make the most of him they could, it would not repay half the damage he had already done. His argument was ready, practical, and to the point, and of much greater length than our limits will allow us to occupy in relating his life and liberty."

Secession Preparations in Mississippi.
Governor Pettus stated a short time since, that the Legislature had passed a law authorising him to purchase arms for the State, and had made an appropriation for that purpose, but that there was but little money at this time in the treasury, and he was determined that it should go towards paying for the arms, even if the officers of the State had, for a time, to do without their salaries.

Serofula, or King's Evil,

is a constitutional disease, a corruption of the blood, by which this fluid becomes vitiated, weak, and poor. Being in the circulation, it pervades the whole body, and may burst out in disease on any part of it. No organ is free from its attacks, nor is there one which it may not destroy. The serofulous taint is variously caused by mercurial disease, low living, disordered or uncleanly food, impure air, filth and filthy habits, the depressing vices, and above all, by the venereal infection. Whatever be its origin, it is hereditary in the constitution, descending from parents to children until the third and fourth generation; indeed, it seems to be the rod of him who says, "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children."

It effects complete by deposition from the blood of scoriae or ulcerous matter, which in the lungs, liver, and internal organs is termed tubercles; in the glands, swellings; and on the surface, eruptions or sores. This bad corruption, which givers in the blood, does not release the energies of life, so that serofulous complaints, but they have a less power to withstand the attacks of other diseases; consequently, vast numbers perish by disorders which, although not serofulous in their nature, are still rendered fatal by their taint in the system. Most of the consumption which decimates the human family has its origin directly in this serofulous contamination; and many destructive diseases of the liver, kidneys, brain, and, indeed, of all the organs, arise from or are aggravated by the same cause.

One quarter of all our people are serofulous; their persons are invaded by this lurking infection, and their health is undermined by it. To cleanse it from the system we must renew the blood by an alternative medicine, and invigorate it by healthy food and exercise. Such a medicine we supply in the most effectual remedy which the medical skill of our times can devise for this every where prevailing and fatal malady. It is compounded from the most active remedials that have been discovered for the expiation of this foul disorder from the blood, and the rescue of the system from its destructive consequences. Hence it should be employed for the cure of not only serofula, but also those other afflictions which arise from it, such as Eruptive and Skin Diseases, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose, or Erg-splash, Pimples, Pustules, Blisters, Blains and Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Sealed Head, Ringworm, Rheumatism, Scoliosis and Mercurial Diseases, Drosy, Dyspepsia, Delirium, and, indeed, all Complaints arising from Vitiated or Impure Blood. The popular belief in "impurity of the blood" is founded in truth, for serofula is a degeneration of the blood. The particular purpose and virtue of this Sarsaparilla is to purify and regenerate this vital fluid, without which sound health is impossible in contaminated constitutions.

AYER'S COMPOUND EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA,

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A FAMILY PHYSIC, are so composed that disease within the range of their action can rarely withstand or evade them. Their purgative properties, however, and cleanse and invigorate every portion of the human organism, correct its disordered action, and restore its healthy vitalities.

As a consequence of these properties, the invalid will be soon brought down with pain or physical debility is established to find his health or energy restored by a remedy once so simple and invigorating.

Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body, but also many formidable and dangerous diseases. The agent below named is pleased to furnish gratis my American Almanac containing certificates of their curative and directions for their use in the following complaints: Costiveness, Heartburn, Headache arising from disordered Stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Pain in and Morbid Inaction of the Bowels, Flatulence, Loss of Appetite, Jaundice, and other kindred complaints, arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF COUGHS, COTULS, INFLUENZA, HEAR-SENSES, CROUP, BRONCHITIS, IN-EPICENT CONSUMPTION, and for the relief of CONSUMPTIVE PATIENTS in advanced stages of the disease.

So wide is the field of its usefulness and so numerous are the cases of its cures, that almost every section of country abounds in persons publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. When once tried, its superiority over every other medicine of its kind is too apparent to escape observation, and where its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous afflictions of the pulmonary organs that are incident to our climate. While many inferior remedies thrust upon the community have failed and been discarded, this has gained friends by every trial, conferred benefits on the afflicted they can never forget, and produced cures too numerous and too remarkable to be forgot.

STATESVILLE, N. C.

Unprofitable Employment.

Some of our contemporaries in the Southern States, as well as various writers for the press elsewhere, are exercising their minds and indulging in speculation, respecting the policy to be pursued by the anti-Lincoln men, in the event of Lincoln's election to the Presidency. Our Washington correspondent, with the comprehensive view which he usually takes of the public events, seems to have fallen into the same train of thoughts, and to apprehend extreme action on the part of some of the Southern States, if we fail to defeat the Republicans in the coming election.

With all respect for those of our friends who are dwelling upon such topics, we suggest that it is easy to find more appropriate employment, now, in active and earnest endeavors to defeat the sectional candidate; thus averting the dreadful calamity, instead of concocting plans to escape from its consequences. If it shall actually be forced upon us; if all our exertions fail to defeat a candidate whose principles and associations threaten evil and only evil to the country; we shall be ready, in common with other friends of the Union, North and South, to look the question squarely in the face, and see what is our duty as honest and good citizens. But, at present, while there is a chance to avert the threatened calamity, we cannot waste our energies upon hypothetical plans. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof; and we prefer at present to work for the Union and for the preservation of the rights of the several States, rather than to spend any time over projects for protecting those rights against the aggressive policy of a prospective Administration, whose power to do mischief may never be consummated.—[Journal of Commerce.]

Physical Training in Schools.

We see the superintendent of the Boston schools recommend the general adoption of gymnastic exercises as a regular part of the school training. It seems to us that there is no movement of the day of greater importance to the scholars individually, or which is intended to have a greater influence upon the well-being of the country, than this of systematic physical training of children. For success in life, vigorous health is of far greater importance than high intellectual culture. Energy is what rules the world. Take two boys, equal in every respect, box one up in school from morning till night, and from year to year, cultivating his mind at the expense of his body, till his nerves have outgrown his muscles, and his brain has outgrown his stomach; while the other boy receives a fair but equal development of both mind and body—and what is the result in the two cases? The scholar graduates perhaps with the highest honors, but he leaves college a feeble and complaining invalid; intellectual and refined, he shrinks with nervous, sensiveness from the rude shocks of the battle of life. The result is, that he is thrust aside in a corner, or is trampled under foot in the race. On the other hand, the man who comes forth upon his career in possession of a vigorous constitution, has the backbone, the nerve, the energy, that enables him to win the great battle that every human is. His days are filled with healthful and happy activity; his slumbers are sweet at night; his cheerfulness (the mutual effect of good digestion) made his presence a pleasure to all who know him; he becomes the father of healthful offspring, and fills his home with merry voices; in short, fulfills all the purposes of his being, and leads a prosperous happy, useful and successful life.

We hail the introduction of physical training into our common schools as being calculated to make the Americans the finest race of men, physically, that the world has ever seen; but we value it more as an important step in carrying to a still higher point the manifold intellectual cultivation of our people.—[Scientific American.]

Reminiscences of Bunker Hill.

Mr. Ralph Farnham, the sole survivor of the battle of Bunker Hill, communicates the following bit of his experience to a committee inviting him to Boston:

When I listed in the American army at the age of 18, I did not suppose I should live to be 104, and be asked by the Governor and Mayor, and other distinguished gentlemen, to visit Boston. It seems strange, that out of all who were at Bunker Hill, I alone should be living. It appears to me, though so long ago, as it was but yesterday. I can remember the particulars of the march after I listed—the people cheered, and when near Andover, Col. Abbott came out and said "Well done, my lads," and sent out cider and grog to us. We got to Cambridge the day before the battle. O, it was a terrible affair to me, for it was the first time I ever engaged in fighting. I served with the army through three campaigns, and was present and on guard when Burgoyne surrendered. I don't think I deserve any special praise for the part I took in the revolution. I felt and acted only as others. I receive every year my pension of sixty-six dollars and sixty-six cents—though I have to pay four dollars to a lawyer in Portland to get it for me.

The Marshal of Cincinnati, a few days since, received the following telegraphic dispatch from Dayton. We hope for the sake of the baby the frow may be caught: "Mr. Marshal, myne frow rouned away mit one Dutchem dis morning, she has bot von eye, vich is black—t other eye is black, too, but she lost him. She's ash big ash a hoghead. I vant to ketch her mit the telegraph and send her home to her bady, for if she don't coombs, I vips her like ter ryle."

We saw a drunken fellow the other day who mistaking a fly on an awning post for a nail, tried to hang his hat on it. The fly was astonished—so was the man—while the spectators were highly delighted to hear him "cuss the nail."

All the Secessionists of Disunionists, in the whole Southern country, are Breckinridge men. Who wants stronger proof that this Breckinridge now affiliates with the Disunionists of the South? Actions speak louder than words!—Yancey is now stamping it at the North, apparently for Breckinridge, but really to favor Lincoln's election, by causing more divisions in the North.—Salem Press.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

FOURTH VOLUME.

THE IREDELL EXPRESS

Will enter upon the Fourth Volume on the 7th December next. For three years we have toiled to make the "EXPRESS" an interesting vehicle of intelligence and recreation to its many readers; how well we have succeeded remains for its patrons to judge.—While many Journals have started into existence in various portions of the country, maintained a feeble existence for a season, and went out, the "EXPRESS" has been regular in its appearance each week and greeted our patrons with its sunny countenance. That we have fell short of our duties in some respects, would not be truthful to deny, but in the main, we have failed all that was promised to us;—in this, as in other respects, we have been more successful in pursuing the even tenor of our way in future, and indulge the belief that, by renewed diligence our efforts to publish an enterprising Journal—such an one will be a welcome visitor to every household—will be crowned with success.

The Express will ever continue an advocate of the best interests of the State, and of the ### Union of the States.

so long as the Rights of all the States are regarded by the General Government, during our country's its columns.

LETTERS, POLITICS, and Miscellaneous reading, will appear each week in our pages as hitherto. The attached to our establishment has been republished, recently, with new Materials, and completeness is second to none in the State for turning out any description of Printing.

JOB OFFICE

The price of the Paper as heretofore will be $2 a year in advance.

NATIONAL FLAG!

W. M. M. Barker would inform the readers of the Express, that he is extensively engaged in the manufacture of CABRIGES AND BUGGIES of the very best style.

He has lately visited a number of the Northern Manufactories, and acquainted himself with all the late improvements in his line; and made arrangements by which he can supply those preferring it, with Northern Work, at much lower rates than it could be done by ordering themselves. It is determined his work shall not be surpassed, and earnestly solicits a Call, at the Sign of the National Flag, Salisbury, N. C.
